Having doubled a large portfolio on paper in six months in 1999, John Atkinson and his wife Angela lost their Sydney Harbour waterfront home in the tech stock crash of 2000, so they speak from hard experience. They then searched the finance education world for the best investing online & online trading information to learn how to trade successfully. John Atkinson is now a regular contributor to Daryl Guppy's weekly newsletter Tutorials in Applied Technical Analysis – previously voted the top trading newsletter by the Australian Shares magazine and no. 4 in the world by US Stocks and Commodities

His knowledge & experience is collated in his new Ebook ' Stock Market Educational Options for Investing Online & Online Trading - Opportunity for a Home Based Business', a collection of these Atkinson-Guppy articles for beginners to advanced online investors & traders. It includes some practical success strategies from technical analysis on how best to buy and when to sell stocks.

One reader, Nathan wrote at www.Stockmeetingplace.com. " ..the author chooses to devote more time to analyzing exit strategies than any other topic... nowhere else is such a broad range of pertinent subjects covered in a single book of similar length. Yet, whatever your level of experience, The Atkinson-Guppy Articles is sure to be an enjoyable and informative read for any trading enthusiast..... perhaps the books most notable strength, namely its ease of understanding. Difficult subjects are presented in layman's terms... Really, this is where Atkinson's book shines the most..... You won't need an education to understand his book – but you may just walk away with a better one."

Jason Mitchell of StarTraderReport.com replied: "What a great book...No flowery wording - straight to the point and most importantly it is new information and not a re-hash of things we've already read in other books, and immediately gives strategies that can be used by anyone to help improve their performance. The book is easy to read and the information easy to apply. I am sure my investment in this book will have paid for itself quite promptly.."
